A medium-sized shingle beach on the northwest side of Sifnos, with truly gorgeous emerald waters. Don't be afraid of the stones! The shop owners have taken care of this by creating a comfortable sandy walkway leading to the sandy bottom!

In general, there are large pebbles and a sufficient number of sunbeds and umbrellas, but this covers a small percentage of its area. At the edges of the beach there are cafes and restaurants with tables next to the sea.

Into the sea, after passing the first meters covered with stones (there are also paved walkways made of sand), clean sand follows. The depth gradually increases and the waters are really wonderful.

It is also worth seeing the sunset on the beach from above.
