

Zarakes beach

38.3150793, 24.2260231

Very beautiful scenery, with an almost exotic character, which is due to the wide, white and sandy beach, which forms a nose entering into the blue-green sea. The rocks surrounding it also look like crab claws.

The strong winds hit the area furiously (that's why it is also known as "Phryniakos"), raising big waves. Which eventually caused human intervention, resulting in the creation of a breakwater, which made the landscape even more interesting, offering waters that are (almost) always calm. Here you will also find umbrellas, sunbeds, as well as a coffee bar.

Overview

Purpose: Excursion	Type: Beach	Country: Greece
--------------------	-------------	-----------------

Greek Map